FIFTEEN A WEEK

During the past two weeks, over THIRTY people have been killed in Virginia in an alarming increase in automotive accidents. Twelve thousand were injured, many of them seriously.

THE PARADE OF DEATH GOES ON. FIFTEEN MORE WILL DIE THIS WEEK END.

The ultimate solution to this problem will more than likely be dual highways, with one way traffic. Yet, to remake the highway system of the state to supply dual, traffic will take time and money, perhaps ten years and one hundred millions of dollars.

However, one step that might be taken NOW, would be to increase the size of the state highway police from 100 to 250. A swarm of white jelly cars, radio equipped, and a couple of more frequent check ups ON THE HIGHWAYS by state police of car inspections, may whittle down the amazing death rate. In the meantime, better be sure your life insurance is paid up before you go out for this Sunday afternoon drive.

HOLD UP, JIM

James H. Price is apparently off to a fine early start in his quest for the governorship of Virginia.
He was well known in the state to start with, and hardly a pamphlet of the speaking to some, or paraphrase of his calendar must be better than governor Price.

The trouble with Jim's candidacy that the next election for the Funeral services for Mrs. Susan A. Jones, 75, who died Saturday morning at her home, were conducted at Central Baptist church at 2 P. M. by her pastor, Rev. R. T. Smith. Interment was in the Central cemetery.

Mrs. Jones was born and reared at Republican Grove, a Halifax county, and was Miss Susan (Cardwell) Jones, of that county, who preceded her to the grave a few years ago.

She is survived by three sons: James, and Peter Jones, of Appomattox county, and three sisters: Mrs. Charles Wright, of Campbell county; Mrs. Mary J. Wright, of Halifax; and Mrs. M. E. Jones, of this county.

They moved to this neighborhood 17 years ago. She gained many friends, who will greatly miss her home near here.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Howlett Driskill, a baby boy, October 19, 1935, to Mr. and Mrs. William Routon, a son.
